POPE LAUDS F. D. KENNEDY TALK

VATICAN CITY, March 13 (AP)—Pope Pius XII was quoted today by Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to London, as expressing "great admiration for President Roosevelt because he always admired his stand for religion."

The Pope received Kennedy, who was President Roosevelt's personal representative at yesterday's coronation ceremony, Mrs. Kennedy and eight of the nine Kennedy children in a private audience.

The only one absent was Joseph P. Jr., who had telegraphed the family that he was unable to arrive in time for the coronation from Madrid, where he has been visiting.

"The Pope expressed gratitude to President Roosevelt for having sent a representative," Kennedy stated.

GIVES THEM ROSARIES

The ambassador said the Pontiff, who usually remains sequestered during audiences, rose to greet him, and when the children came in the Holy Father went to a table to get them rosaries, his gift to the family.

The Pope recalled his visit to the Kennedy home in Bronxville, N. Y.

Hilaire Belloc, world famous historian and novelist, gives a graphic description in today's Boston Evening American of the gorgeous coronation of Pope Pius XII. See Page 8.

In 1908, the ambassador said, he added that the Holy Father remembered taking young Teddy Kennedy on his lap and recalled how the boy asked about the cross which hung from his neck.

The Pontiff was described as having spoken of the pleasure he had in meeting the President's family and his private secretary, Margaret Lehand, of Somerville, Mass., when he visited Hyde Park on his American trip.

BLESSES AMERICANS

Before concluding the audience, the Pope blessed the ambassador, his family, and aides who accompanied him.

AWARD BAY STATE HUGE GREEN TAX

The long legal battle waged by four states for the right to levy an inheritance tax on the $36,000,000 estate of the late Col. Edward H. Green was finally won today by Massachusetts.

The victory—a $4,947,000 plum for the coffers of the Commonwealth—came in the form of a United States Supreme Court decision sustaining a report by Special Master John S. Flannery. He found Green's true residence was at Round Hills, South Dartmouth.

Attorney General Paul A. Dever said today that immediate steps would be taken to speed collection of the huge tax, estimated as sufficient to reduce tax rates $1 in every Massachusetts town and city.

SON OF HETTY GREEN

Colonel Green was the eccentric son of an eccentric mother—Hetty

Green, once reputed to be the wealthiest woman in the world.

Her proverbial parsimony made her reluctant to "waste" money on doctors' fees, with the alleged result that Edward, as a young man, lost his leg and wore a cork one the greater part of his life.

The multi-million-dollar inheritance Colonel Green received from his mother he built into a still more imposing fortune.

LIVED IN 4 STATES

At various times, he lived in New York, Florida and Texas, as well as in Massachusetts.

Each of those states claimed him as a resident and each sought to take a slice of his estate in the form of an inheritance tax.

The master finding, upheld today by the full bench of the U. S. Supreme Court, ruled that Colonel Green never established a legal domicile in New York or Miami.

His action in claiming residence in Texas was an unlawful attempt to evade the Massachusetts income tax, the master found.

Both Colonel Green and Hetty Green were "tax dodgers" all their lives, it was contended.

Today's Supreme Court ruling was by a six-to-two majority, with newly appointed Justice Felix Frankfurter of Massachusetts one of the dissenters. The other dissenter was Justice Hugo Black.

Justice Frankfurter held that the issue was one in which the court did not have jurisdiction.

Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long said today the state has spent $300,000 during the litigation. Collecting the tax will take time, but all legal barriers have now been surmounted, he said.

MRS. JOHN G. WINANT

Mrs. John G. Winant Operated On in N.Y.

Mrs. John G. Winant, wife of the former New Hampshire governor, was at Roosevelt Hospital, New York, today, recovering from a minor operation.

Her husband now director of the International Labor Bureau, at Geneva, Switzerland, was reported in daily communication with the hospital by transatlantic telephone.

Mrs. Winant left her home in Concord, N. H., early last week in order to undergo the operation in New York Wednesday. Doctors said she was convalescing so satisfactorily she might be able to return to New Hampshire in a week or ten days.

She is the former Countess Rivington Russell of Princeton, N. J.

Daughter of a wealthy and socially prominent family, she is reported to have a personal fortune of more than $10,000,000.

She and former Governor Winant have two sons and a daughter, whose education and upbringing she is supervising during her husband's absence in Europe.

Mrs. Winant's personal hobby is thoroughbred dogs. Her white Highland terriers annually win blue ribbons in New England and New York dog shows.

Hitler Aids Plot On Czecho Regime In New War Peril

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, March 13—Fall of the Czecho-Slovak government under pressure from Adolf Hitler, to be followed by accession of a regime more definitely Nazi in complexion, is expected shortly, according to well-informed quarters in Berlin today.

While the Nazi press kept up a steady drumfire of criticism against Prague for alleged "terrorism and oppression" in Slovakia, where a strong separatist movement is in progress, Hitler took his first decisive step toward a new alignment vastly increasing German dominance of Central Europe.

Hitler received Dr. Joseph Tiso, former premier of Slovakia, one of the leaders of the separatist movement, and Franz Karmasin, German minority leader. Tiso arrived in Berlin by special plane from Pressburg (Bratislava) on an urgent summons from Hitler.

GETS HITLER'S ORDERS

The entire Slovak situation will be canvassed and Tiso will receive definite instructions from Hitler before returning.

It can be assumed, well-informed authorities said, that the Czech state headed by President Emil Hacha not only will receive a radically altered complexion before the situation is liquidated but that the status of Hungarians, Poles and German in Ruthenia will be clarified "once and for all."

As Hitler thus moved to consolidate his hold on central Europe, informed observers in Berlin saw little possibility of conflict developing outside of localized clashes.

Even if the German army intervenes, no real difficulty is anticipated unless the Poles defy existing circumstances by marching into Ruthenia.

DUCE IN ACCORD

Even then, it was felt, the western powers would attempt to remain completely disinterested despite the fact that events as forecast will eradicate the last vestige

DIONNE OK'S TRIP FOR QUINS

CALLANDER, Ontario, March 13 (Canadian Press)—Olivia Dionne, father of the quintuplets, announced today he had accepted the invitation of the Ontario government to take his famous daughters to Toronto to be presented May 22 to King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

The little girls, who will be five years old on May 28, have never been outside Callander and when the invitation was issued March 7 Dionne looked on it with disfavor.

Plans were proposed for Annette, Yvonne, Cecile, Emilie and Marie to be taken by special train to Toronto, 180 miles south of here.

Dionne today said he had a "keen desire" to have the girls meet their majesties and that he would take his entire family to Toronto. If arrangements were made for their accommodation, the Dionnes have 12 children.

In an exclusive interview with Dr. Dufre, in the Boston Sunday Advertiser yesterday, the quins' physician revealed he would have no objection to the Toronto trip, provided the quins' health be safeguarded.

BLIZZARD DEATHS 14 IN STATE, MANY HURT

Fourteen persons were dead today in Massachusetts and scores were injured as the heaviest snowstorm of the winter went out to sea, leaving Boston streets in their worst condition in years.

But Snow Is Snow—So!

CAR RACING STORK STUCK IN DRIFT

Winner in a battle against the gale-driven snow, Mrs. Mildred Sofia, 29, of Cherry street, Chelsea, today became the mother of a girl at Chelsea Memorial Hospital.

The daughter, probably will always be the "snow baby" in the household of Mrs. Sofia and her husband, Louis, because she nearly was born in the midst of the storm.

While the storm was blowing its worst, the young wife and her husband started for the hospital in their car.

CAR STICKS IN DRIFT

Near Chelsea, police headquarters, however, the automobile stuck fast in a snowdrift, and no amount of jockeying or maneuvering by the frantic husband could work it free.

Leaving his wife in the car, Sofia raced into the police station and asked for aid.

Patrolmen Ralph Eaves and Alfred Seavey hastily pulled out their heavy coats, boots and mittens, wheeling out a police cruiser car and transferred the couple into the police machine.

REACH HOSPITAL

This time the progress through the storm was uninterrupted, and Mrs. Sofia reached the hospital in time.

The little newcomer arrived at 7:01 a. m., all unmindful of the excitement she had caused her parents.

SNOW AND WIND—Sweeping across Commonwealth Pier, 45-mile-an-hour gale gave pause to pedestrians who had a hard time in negotiating to Summer street.

More than 14 inches of snow fell during the gale-driven storm, which started shortly before 6 p. m. on Saturday.

Tonight, according to the weather bureau, will be fair and slightly colder, with fair weather continuing tomorrow.

From the Middle West, however, came a prediction of increasing cloudiness and snow along the northern border of the nation, with the disturbance expected to move eastward into the New England states.

The storm forced shipping practically to a standstill, schools were closed, air lines suspended operations, train and trolley schedules were shelved and motor traffic was almost at a crawl in many sections.

Recalling the famed "March blizzard of 1888," just 51 years ago today, the storm sent out an army of snow shovelers throughout New England, where hundreds of automobiles were stalled in drifts.

Whipped by a 45-mile-an-hour gale, the sea pounded the length of the coast from Canada to New York, sweeping a man to death in Boston harbor and flooding streets in many towns.

Gigantic breakers crashed across Shirley street and Winthrop Shore drive in Winthrop, and several side streets were under water. Short Beach section in Revere was hit even worse.

Derailments and snow blockades held up train travel in many sections.

The locomotive of the Boston & Maine newspaper train to New Hampshire left the rails in Middlesex street, Lowell.

In Shelburne Falls wreckers struggled to unangle 31 freight cars which jumped the rails.

Downtown Parking Ties Snow Work

An appeal to all motorists to refrain from parking downtown where they would hamper snow removal work was made today as more than 4000 men and 300 trucks began clearing the streets of Boston.

George G. Hyland, public works commissioner, said cars already parked downtown have seriously hindered workmen and trucks, and that in some areas snow removal work was almost impossible.

Long Urges 2 P. C. Sales Tax to Net 40 Millions, Ease Burden on Realty

Declaring that "conditions are bad and are growing worse," State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long appeared before the joint legislative Committee on Taxation today to urge adoption of a general 2 per cent sales tax to increase the state's revenues by an estimated $40,000,000-a-year.

Real estate valuations have decreased $1,000,000,000 in the last eight years, he asserted, adding that if new revenues are not devised, tax rates of from $50 to $60 may follow.

He spoke in a nearly empty chamber, with exactly 20 persons present in addition to the members of the committee.

Because of the storm the hearing was an hour late in getting under way. He was to be followed by Reginald W. Bird, president of the Massachusetts Taxpayers Federation, and Norman MacDonald, the federation's executive director.

FOES HEARD TOMORROW

Tomorrow's session will be devoted to the opposition.

Commissioner Long stated that a sales tax was first suggested eight years ago, and that at that time was allowed to die because "we thought something would turn up. Nothing has."

During those eight years, he added, costs of government have increased by $100,000,000 a year, with welfare costs leading the way. He pointed out that old age expenses, as well as those for dependent children, already total $25,000,000 and will increase.

Industrial towns and cities, hardest hit by depression and with consequent increases in relief expenditures, must, he said, be saved by state aid. But at the same time, the burden must be taken off of real estate.

OFFERS LUXURY TAX

He was prepared to offer a luxury tax substitute in the event the committee turns down the general sales tax. Some elements of the Long luxury tax plan were discussed.

Principal objection to a general tax plan, he said, was that it afflicted the very poor. He suggested that this be cured for either by fixing minimum incomes, recipients of which would be entitled to refunds—suggesting $365-a-year for single persons, and $600-a-year for heads of families—or grading the tax to apply to articles selling for over a certain figure, such as $10 for suits, and the like.

The second suggestion follows the lines of his substitute bill, intended to raise $28,000,000, which would place a tax on scores of articles selling over a certain price—such as 25-cent meals, $100 automobiles and the like. Other articles, such as theatrical equipment, air-conditioning and the like, would be taxed no matter what the minimum cost.

F. D. May Force Labor Peace

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—The men trying to end the conflict between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations returned to their peace conversations today, apparently still sharply divided as to procedure.

With indications of a possible stalemate in the negotiations, reports gained momentum that President Roosevelt may attempt to force the union leaders to come to terms.

The New York Times says the President used a "big stick" at the first labor conference in the White House last week.

M'PHAIL, BRIDE ON WAY TO COAST

Robert "Bob" McPhail, Dartmouth All-American football star, and the former Beatrice O'Keefe, 33, of Jamaica Plain, chain store heiress, today were

BEATRICE McPHAIL

Reveries here revealed their eight-year romance had culminated in marriage.

Bernard O'Keefe of West Newton disclosed that his sister had wired that she and McPhail were on their way to San Francisco and would send details later.

O'Keefe added it was the first news of the marriage the family had received and that they did not know just where or when the ceremony had taken place. They believed, O'Keefe said, the two had been married before starting on their western trip and had kept the marriage a secret until starting on their honeymoon.

McPhail told friends before he left last Friday that he planned to visit San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The bride is one of seven children who shared in the estate of her father—an estate estimated at $1,045,000 when his will was filed for probate in Suffolk court in April, 1931. O'Keefe, who created the great chain store business which bore his name, died April 5 of that year.

McPhail, one of the greatest athletes in Dartmouth's history and a graduate of the class of 1928, was captain of the football team his senior year and was named an All-American fullback. He had called signals for his team as quarterback his sophomore year, when the famed "Swede" Oberlander, also an All-American back, led his team through a series of smashing victories during an undefeated season.

A classmate and fellow-back of McPhail was Myron Lane, who also achieved All-American status and who was one of McPhail's closest friends.

McPhail also won fame in hockey and baseball and was a student of high academic standing.

Saltonstall Budget Assailed by C. of C.

Governor Saltonstall's budget was scored by the Boston Chamber of Commerce today in an announcement which also warned that bills pending in the Legislature may force many cities and towns into bankruptcy. "The governor's budget, with its scant attempt at savings, and its imminent threat of new and burdensome taxes, has shocked the dormant forces of economy into a reawakening revival," declared J. Sidney Stone, chairman of the committee on state taxation and expenditures of the Chamber.

"We are now reaping the harvest of the wasteful policies of the past few years. But—and this is most discouraging—a defeatist attitude in the State House has led me to accept the trend of increase as unpreventable."

EXTRAVAGANCE PERIL
"If this attitude is allowed to prevail, the price will be prostration of the productive enterprises of the state by the insatiable appetite of governmental extravagance."

Tax rates of $50 and $60 would be "comprehensive" in Massachusetts cities and towns if the Legislature were to listen sympathetically to all the pleas contained in bills for new spending proposals in the present session, Stone warned.

DANGER TO CITIES

Favorable action by the Legislature on proposals for new expenditures would prove calamitous, the committee warned.

"Any doubts regarding the claim that many of our cities and towns are nearing bankruptcy would speedily be removed," Stone predicted.

B. U. GIVES 4 DEGREES AT TRINITY

An author, an educator, a clergyman and a diplomat received honorary degrees from Boston University today.

The awards were made at Trinity Church exercises celebrating the university's ninth annual Founders' Day.

A Doctor of Science degree was given Dr. Arthur Emmanuel Hertzler of Haleside, Kan., author of the "best seller" autobiography, "Horse and Bugle Doctor."

George Henry Chase, new Harvard dean, was given a Doctor of Literature degree; Dr. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, Trinity Church rector, the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

John Calvin Ferguson of New York was given a doctor of laws degree. He was formerly advisor of the president of the Chinese republic and was also counselor to the Chinese state department.

The degrees were awarded by President Daniel L. Marsh of Boston University. In his address, he paid high tribute to the late Charles Hayden, Boston and New York banker and financier, who left Boston University a substantial legacy. President Marsh described him as a "two-fisted Wall street fighter with a big, generous, loving human heart."

2 T Wharf Heroines Save 18 Lives in Snow

T-Wharf had two heroines today—after a dramatic rescue in which 18 lives (felines) were saved.

First nine of the lives imperiled were those of the exclusive wharf colony's newest and most beloved mascot, a cuddly waddy-legged, two-week-old kitten.

Its name is Jetsam and it belongs to wealthy and socially prominent Mrs. Pricilla Jones, who occupies a T-Wharf studio apartment with her broker husband, Kenneth Jones.

On an adventure tour of the wharf, Jetsam miscalculated a jump—and tumbled into the harbor. It was a ten-foot drop.

Half-stunned, the kitten waited a feeble cry for help.

Luckily for Jetsam, there was one pair of ears instinctively attuned to that faint and strangled "meow-o-ow." To the rescue went the mother cat, Flotsam, also owned by Mrs. Jones.

It took more than courage to save the drowning kitten, however. It took brains.

Flotsam picked the wharf pile that extended down into the water nearest to where poor, tiny, exhausted Jetsam was struggling.

Tail-first down the pile, the mother-cat went digging her claws hard through the slimy weeds left by the tide. Clinging to the pile, she tried to reach the kitten, but the distance was too great.

Right then was when Flotsam showed herself a real heroine. Risking her own nine lives, she let go the piling, dropped in the icy water—and swam!

With the kitten in her teeth she swam back to the pile was touch-and-go. But the mother cat made it.

Here's where heroine No. 2 came to the rescue. 16-year-old Barbara McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDowell of T-Wharf. She lowered herself, step by step, down a ladder-like row of cleats nailed to a wharf support.

Knee-deep in the water, the girl clutched cat and kitten, hugged them under her arm—and clambered back to safety!

FIRE'S IN SAUGUS ROUT 14, STORM BLOCKS ENGINES

Imperiled by both flames and fallen high-voltage wires, 14 persons, 10 of them children, fled for their lives today when fire levelled one Saugus home and partly destroyed another.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cittadine of Venice street and their six children awakened to find their home in flames, all escape to the lower floor cut off by blazing staircases.

Opening a window to a porch, they ran outside and then leaped without injury into the deep snow-drifts.

The same snowdrifts that meant safety for the family also caused the loss of their home. Firemen made the two-mile run through heavy drifts, and, on reaching the scene, were further hampered by crackling electric light wires on the ground.

The flames, firemen reported, leaped to the next door home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nason, forcing them to flee with their four children. Both families found shelter with neighbors.

An emergency crew from the Lynn Gas and Electric Light Company turned off the power and cleared away the wires to give firemen a chance to fight the blaze.

The Cittadine house was destroyed with estimated damage of $6000, while another $1000 damage was caused at the adjoining home.

Five Firemen Injured At $8000 Quincy Blaze

Five firemen were treated for cuts and smoke inhalation today while fighting an $8000 fire in the Quincy Furniture Company, Hancock street, Quincy.

The blaze was confined to the basement and first floor of the furniture company, but a restaurant, barber shop and clothing store suffered smoke damage.

The injured firemen were all treated at the scene. Apparatus had to travel only 300 yards from the central fire station.

Nazi Coup to 'Free' Slovaks of Czechs

PRAGUE, March 13 (INS)—A Nazi German coup to "liberate" Germans and Slovaks in Slovakia appeared imminent today.

All efforts for local settlement of Slovak autonomy demands were abandoned as the German press screamed for an instant end to alleged "terrorism and oppression" in Slovakia and numerous clashes brought partisan feelings to the boiling point.

In Vienna, Dr. Ferdinand Durciansky, fugitive Slovak minister of communications and chief exponent of an independent Slovakia cut off from administration by Prague, broadcast:

"The historic moment of decision is near. The moment for liberation of Slovaks under the protection of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler will soon come."

CAN'T HOLD SLOVAKS

After surveying all developments at 2 p. m., best-informed circles in Prague believed there was no longer any hope of retaining Slovakia in the diminished Czecho-Slovak republic as created under the Munich four-power agreement.

Meanwhile, Dr. Joseph Tiso, former Slovak premier, entrained for Berlin "at the express invitation of Reichsfuehrer Hitler."

His journey is being made with the knowledge if not the consent of the Prague and the Slovak governments. At last reports, he had been incarcerated in a monastery near Bratislava, but presumably was freed to enable a conference with Hitler.

Meanwhile, Herr Murjos political chief of the Hlinka Guard, premier, and openly accused him of betraying the cause of Slovakian independence.

"FREE" UNDER HITLER

Murjos asked to be relieved of his oath of loyalty. Sides declined, whereupon Murjos abruptly left for Vienna. He immediately issued a manifesto over the radio calling on members of the Hlinka Guard to be prepared for a "life and death struggle."

Echoing the words of Durciansky, Murjos said:

"An independent Slovakia is coming under the protection of Herr Hitler."

It was anticipated that Tiso would proclaim from Germany the independence of Slovakia under German protection.

of British and French influence in the Danubian basin.

It was generally understood Premier Mussolini has given his full consent to Hitler's action for settlement of the Czecho-Slovak dispute.

Tiso's summons to Berlin was regarded as an almost exact parallel to the call that went out from Hitler to Kurt Schuschnigg, Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart and Konrad Henlein prior to the annexation of Austria and the Sudetenland.

Although outwardly everything was calm in Berlin, the public was beginning to evince an interest in Czecho-Slovak developments and realize that something was coming to a head.

In a triple-bank headline, the afternoon newspaper Nachtausgabe shouted:

"Bloody terror against Germans and Slovaks creates an unbearable situation."

Accusing the Czechs of sabotaging peace, the paper said:

"Hand in hand with brutal Czech acts against Slovaks goes unheard of terror and a wave of anti-German action not only in Slovakia but in Czechoslovakia itself."

The situation as regards German nationals is grave and menacing.

"The German auxiliary corps is battling Czech gendarmes and Communists."

MIAJA SET FOR PEACE IN SPAIN

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish frontier), March 13 (AP)

General Jose Miaja was reported ready today to make immediate peace with General Franco to forestall a threatened nationalist offensive to take the rest of Spain by force.

After a five-hour session in Madrid the defense council, headed by Miaja, announced that, with the six-day Communist uprising suppressed, the government would go ahead with "the plan drawn up before the rebellion."

That plan border observers believed would mean the end of the civil war by virtually unconditional surrender.

Forty persons were reported killed and more than 100 injured in a Nationalist air raid yesterday at Guadalajara, 40 miles northeast of Madrid.

2 Big Armies Move Into Madrid Battle

MADRID, March 13 (INS)—Two full army corps, each with an estimated strength of 30,000 men, marched towards each other south of Madrid today, according to accounts received on the Franco side of the Madrid front, for a clash which may decide the outcome of the internal Communist pro-war rebellion against the peace regime of Gen. Miaja.

When the big forces meet, it was indicated, heavy fighting will occur in the streets of Madrid's southern quarter, where the thoroughfares have been barricaded.

Einstein Finds Lost Link in Gravitation

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, March 13—Professor Albert Einstein, the scientist, announced today he had discovered a new solution of the riddle of gravitation.

MOTHER OF 2 SAVED FROM GAS

A 39-year-old Revere widow, mother of two children, was saved from death by escaping gas today when neighbors called police to the rescue.

She is Mrs. Blanche Jewkes of Winthrop avenue. She lost her husband less than a year ago, police said they were told.

Battling snow drifts in a police cruiser, Patrolmen Michael Foley and Luke Church sped to the home on a call from occupants of the first floor.

Unable to get any response, the police crashed in a rear door.

They found the mother unconscious in her bedroom, where gas was flowing from a wall jet. Two young children slept unharmed in another room.

After being revived, the mother was taken for further treatment to the home of neighbors.

Governor Asks Solons Study El

Governor Saltonstall today called upon the Public Utilities Commission to make an immediate valuation study of the Boston Elevated Railway to guide the legislature in considering public ownership of the system.

Daniel J. Lynch, the governor's secretary, told the legislative committee on metropolitan affairs that such a study should be completed by April 1. Previously Saltonstall had recommended purchase of the Elevated by municipalities served by the system.

The riddle is the unknown cause of gravitation and its connection with electricity, matter and magnetism. Professor Einstein kept the solution secret, explaining that it would be tested with actual experiments.

The announcement was made in a birthday interview—Einstein will be 50 tomorrow—with L. E. Levick of the National Association of Science Writers, and released through the association. Levick is science writer for the New York Journal and American and International News Service.

GRAVITATION MISSING LINK

Einstein thinks he has discovered the clue to a long-sought single law that will explain the structure of the entire universe and all the mysteries of matter and radiation. Gravitation is the missing link. Everything else, scientists have suspected, will become clear if someone can learn how gravitation originates.

Science already has proof that all matter is made of discrete particles which seem to be electricity. It knows how electricity travels through space and matter. It knows that wherever there is electricity, magnetism appears, and vice versa.

It knows that both electricity and magnetism travel in the form of waves, although seeming to be made of particles, that both can have the speed of light, and that both spread everywhere in "fields" the same as gravitation has a "field."

ALL ELECTRO WAVES

Finally science has evidence that all rays from light to radio and cosmic, including heat, are only electromagnetic waves. There are a few laboratory experiments proving that these "rays" are converted into solid matter.

In this way the mystery of the source of matter and of energy has seemed complete, all except fitting gravitation into the puzzle.

Two years ago Einstein announced that he had a tentative solution which he described as the idea that a particle of solid matter was a "bridge between shells of space." However, that solution did not work well enough to explain all matter.

A year ago Einstein, in a book, announced evidence that the known "fields"—that is electricity, gravitation and magnetism—may be "the only reality." Everything else, including matter, would be some combination of the "fields."

3 Tech Students Guilty in Battle

Three Tech students were found guilty of disturbing the peace when they appeared in East Cambridge court today as the aftermath of a snowball battle with Cambridge police in Ames street.

The cases of Raymond C. Fernandes, 18, of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Roy C. Reacock, 1, of Uniontown, Ala., who pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace, were filed.

Robert E. Navin, 18, of Birmingham, Mich., appeared with his head neatly swathed in bandages. He was charged with disturbing the peace and assault and battery on Officer Thomas D. Brown.

The first charge was filed by Judge Walcott, and on the second Navin was fined $10.

Sterilization Seen Thrifty

RICHMOND, Va., March 13 (AP)—A mental hospital superintendent reduced sterilization to economics today and estimated Virginia's legally-sanctioned work in that field would save the state $379,800,000 in a century.

Since 1924 there have been 3091 recorded sterilizations performed in Virginia, Dr. J. S. Dejanette, superintendent of the state hospital at Staunton, told the state hospital board.

He said he assumed that each of the 3091 patients would have had 20 defective descendants in 100 years, a total of 61,800.

"Assuming they would each average 30 years of life," he added, "we would have 1,854,000 defectives in the state for one year. With a per capita cost per year of $200 the state is saved in 100 years the burden of $379,800,000, or $3,798,000 per year."

ITCHING SCALP LEADS TO BALDNESS

IF Your scalp itches intensely, you can conclude that one or more of the 14 local causes of baldness is attacking your hair growing structure. If you keep on scratching, or continue to get temporary relief by applying "cure-all" surface lotions, you may spread the infection over a larger area and lead yourself more speedily to complete baldness. If you stop scratching and rid your scalp of the causes of the itching, you will save your hair—avoid baldness!

More than a quarter-million persons have found the Thomas treatment the surest and fastest way to stop scalp itch, end dandruff, and promote normal hair growth on thin and bald spots. A Thomas expert will gladly examine your hair and scalp, without charge or obligation, and will tell you exactly what is causing your hair loss, and precisely what can be done to overcome your trouble.

Come in today for a free scalp examination. See for yourself how Thomas treatment ends dandruff, stops abnormal hairfall and promotes hairgrowth for others, and how this reliable, proved method can help you, also, to retain or regain a good head of hair.

HILAIRE BELLOC DESCRIBES CORONATION

The Boston Evening American presents a picturesque eyewitness account of the coronation of Pope Pius XII, by Hilaire Belloc, world famous historian and novelist.

By HILAIRE BELLOC

VATICAN CITY, March 13—Yesterday, the day of Great Gregory—I saw, towards the end of a long life, something more than I have seen of many things in the course of that life.

I saw the crowning of a Pope in magnificence and splendor which, even some years ago, could not have been foreseen.

There was an air of resurrection, and a mighty suggestion of permanence and above the grandeur of the stupendous thing.

What was the secret of this revelation?

I had known Rome for more than half a life time. I have walked here in a young man at the end of a long pilgrimage from France. Five or six years ago, I had thrown, as custom demands, a coin into the fount of the stupendous thing.

But I was to come again for the beginning of the fifth reign. I was to hear the silver trumpets and the elevation of the host at St. Peter's.

I have lived to know the reign of four Popes; to have the honor of being received by three.

BENEDICTION—Pope Pius XII gives blessing to crowds in St. Peter's square just after his election to the papacy.

I was to hear the plaudits of acclamations of perhaps a million people gathered in a vast crowd within and without.

I saw a succession of something that has endured for nearly 2000 years.

Anything which endures, seeming to escape the common doom fills the mind with awe—also with supreme curiosity. It has the quality of the symbol, a promise and a reminder. It is a sign to us, who die, of undying things.

What most moves me is rather the manner of that endurance.

VERY MARK OF LIFE

The renewal of the papacy's unceasing mark is diversity—the very mark of life. Holders of that crown have been young and old—some dying at the extreme limits of old age, some few, like Benedict, a mere boy of 19.

They have been rich and poor. They have been of every station; a little before the Reformation the famous Colonna, Martin the Fifth, whose family is the oldest in Europe after the Irish O'Neills, others within my lifetime from the lesser nobility of Rome, from provincial storekeepers, from drug-gists.

Among the greatest of the recent Popes one had for a brother a local postman. Tomorrow it may be some prince, the day after tomorrow it may be the son of a laborer.

It was warred upon by men who were masters of the whole world, emperors, whether as heretics at issue with doctrine, or as passing pagan reactionaries, or as iconoclasts.

Perhaps reluctantly it broke away from the distant emperors of Constantinople. It became the chief political power in the new eastern nations which arose during the middle ages. It was the rallying center against Islam.

It went into exile under the French kings when the western empire failed to stop the schism and establishment of rivals, each claiming the ultimate office—at the very end there were as many as three.

Hardly was unity restored when it seemed to loose its hold over the Christian princes save in name and empty titles. Then came the tempest of the reformation when it was all but uprooted and from which it emerged with the loss of half its provinces. Half of Christendom would no longer recognize it.

I, who am writing this, was an advertisement ready a growing lad when the chief newspaper in Europe called the Pope "a purveyor of fairy tales and toys." So thought all contemporaries then, all the intellectuals, all leaders of thought.

I am now old and I find those same men saying today something very different.

Wherein lies the secret of such inhuman vitality? The believer will reply "the secret lies in its divine origin and function." The unbeliever must seek the answer elsewhere. He will believe this strange thing to be immortal because wholly human.

The Papacy survives because, whether its claim be false or true, it is of the spirit. It endures and is alive because guaranteed by the immaterial power of the human mind.

THE CROWDS GATHER

From a very early hour the crowd began to gather. And the people had risen long before dawn. By daybreak the high doors of the Basilica were opened.

Every cranny was filled. Foreign envoys, members of royalty, great dignitaries and the people at large awaiting the event were like a nation.

There came chiefs of the church, bishops, cardinals, heads of religious orders, and in smaller groups, members of the royal houses of Europe. All these filed by and until the movement ceased and at last the newly elected Pope was borne in.

He came, after a long established custom, upon a high chair of state with its canopy and its flanking plumes; a sight which generations have seen and which might have been a mere repetition but for one thing. That one thing, that new air, was a certain expectancy.

For hours the pageant proceeded. Mass was said by the new Pontiff in that fashion which recalls the very first centuries. All the ancient ceremonies were observed yet over them was some-

1 Of Every 7 Under Pope

WASHINGTON, March 13 (NS)—One out of every seven persons on earth is under the spiritual authority of Pope Pius XII, the National Geographic Society stated in a bulletin coincident with the coronation of the new Pontiff.

There are now between three and four hundred million Catholics among the world's estimated two billion people.

South America has the largest proportionate Catholic population of any continent, amounting to over 90 per cent of its inhabitants.

Asia has the least Catholic representation, with less than two per cent of the total population. Europe, with more than 200,000,000, approaches the 50 per cent mark, the bulletin said.

There are about 110,000,000 Catholics in both Americas. Of these 12,000,000 are in the United States.

New York is the nation's number one Catholic state, numerically, with more than 3,000,000 of that faith, but Massachusetts has the greatest proportionate number.

thing new, a thing which none could actually grasp, but which all could and did feel.

It was the end of six hours from our first entry, of nearly five from the appearance of Pius XII himself under the great dome.

The new Pope came out into the open air, to the high balcony over the central door and there put upon his head the triple crown. He gave his benediction to an ocean of human beings stretched out tight and close to the very tier.

I have never looked on so many people gathered in one view. It reminded me of a sentence in the Mohammedan chronicles of the third crusade which tells of the hosts before the Battle of Hattin. "It was as though all the dead had risen at the last day."

The venerable figure rose to give his blessing, and Pius XII, before departing, stretched out his hands and smiled.

Kennedy Family Is Received by Pope

panied him. He also sent his blessing to all American people.

His Holiness also blessed rosaries and medallions for friends of the Kennedy.

The ambassador was received first. Afterwards audiences were granted Mrs. Kennedy, the children and their governess, the ambassador's secretary, Edward Moore, and Franklin C. Gowen, of the United States consular staff in London.

The Kennedys then called on Cardinal Maglione, papal secretary of state, and visited the Sistine chapel.

Papal attendants carried a silver tray of rosaries and medallions to the waiting Kennedy car.

OTHER BOSTONIANS THERE

Those present to the Pontiff included also Mrs. Moore, Miss Elizabeth Dunn of Boston, the Kennedy children's nurse, and Miss Louella Hennessey of Boston, their governess.

Later, while the ambassador was talking with Cardinal Maglione, the papal secretary of state expressed great interest in learning the Kennedys had nine children. Because he was the ninth child in his own family, Cardinal Maglione asked to see the ninth young Kennedy.

Today, the youngest, was brought in to see the cardinal, who shook him by both hands and wished him good luck, in Italian.

The ambassador and his family plan to spend the rest of the week in Italy sightseeing.

HOPES FOR PEACE

In an audience for the cardinals, after the coronation yesterday, the Pope reiterated his hope that his reign would be one of peace.

"We grasp with our hands the tilter of St. Peter's ship with the intention of guiding it to the port of peace across so many waves and tempests," various cardinals quoted him.

They said the Pope declared he had neither wished nor foreseen his election as Pontiff but that he had bowed to the will of God.

The Pope opened his old summer estate in the Alban Hills today to the envoys of 41 nations who saw him crowned with brilliant pomp and stately ceremony in St. Peter's.

Diplomats, prelates and princes were among the 500,000 or so persons who watched the resplendent scenes of religious pageantry and enthusiasm in the vast mother church of Catholicism when the great, golden, jewel-encrusted tiara was placed on the head of the 82nd Pope, a Pope of Peace.

The envoys were invited to be guests of the new pontiff's secretary of state, Cardinal Maglione, for a tour of the 100-acre lake-side papal estate at Castel Gandolfo and tea in the 20-year-old summer palace.

The Pope was not expected to go personally to Castel Gandolfo for the reception.

MANY SUFFER BRUISES

Scores of ordinary folk nursed bruises and rested overstrained nerves from the four-hour coronation ceremony and the crush when thousands rushed out from the basilica to see the actual coronation, which took place on a St. Peter's balcony for the first time in almost a century.

It was estimated conservatively that 60,000 persons jammed their selves to near-suffocation within St. Peter's.

Outside in the great square a throng estimated at 350,000 to 500,000 swarmed until it overflowed the 15 acres of the plaza, bounded by the famous elliptical colonnades. Inside the church were wondrous scenes of brilliance.

PONTIFF CHERISHED

Ecclesiastical cheers greeted the Pontiff, whose face was immobile as a mask. A pallor betrayed his emotion. His lips were set in a thin line and his eyes showed deep feeling at the acclamation, "Viva il Papa!"

Pierre Cardinal Gerlier, archbishop of Lyon, France, who was master of ceremonies, was escorted by Swiss guards at the beginning of the colorful procession. European royalty, including Crown Prince Umberto of Italy and princess envoys of foreign countries including Ambassador Kennedy and Prime Minister Eamon De Valera of Ireland, and heads of religious orders were among the leaders of the procession.

Subsequently the cardinal deacon knelt before the tomb of St. Peter beneath the basilica floor and invoked the guidance of the Virgin and saints. Then the Pope advanced to the central altar to celebrate mass at 10:45 a. m.

Cardinal Motors To Naples

ROME, March 13.—His solemn duties at Vatican City over, William Cardinal O'Connell today departed with his party on a leisurely motor trip to Naples.

There the Boston prelate will rest until embarking March 19 on the Italian liner motorship Vulcania for his return to America.

The Vulcania is scheduled to arrive in New York March 30 and the cardinal is expected home the following day. However, officials of the line contemplated a special stop at Boston to enable His Eminence to reach home sooner.

Deeds Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia is expected to sail on the Rex next Thursday and George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago to leave for home late this week via Paris.

Cardinal O'Connell played a leading part in the coronation ceremonies of Pope Pius XII, walking alone at the head of more than 50 princes of the church in St. Peter's.

By virtue of his nearly three decades as a primate, the cardinal led the procession, with other cardinal priests following in pairs.

Among the 2000 which crowded the church were many Americans, including Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, official representative of the United States government.

Cardinal O'Connell's leading part came as dean of the cardinal priests of the Sacred College. Only the cardinal bishops, but six in number, preceded him. They walk in a small group, two-by-two.

At the homage ceremony, the Boston cardinal was the seventh to step forward and embrace the new Pope.

Revere Trucking In Riley Probe

Charges that trucking permits were given to a Revere attorney, dentist, counselor-at-large and trucker in a change of administration were made today at the outster hearing against Frank E. Riley, suspended head of the commercial motor vehicle division at the public utilities department.

Dominic Olivato, Revere trucker, testified that four Revere truck owners went "out in the cold" when Mayor Lawrence Gillis replaced former Mayor James O'Brien at the last election.

New permits were immediately granted by Riley, Olivato said. He "had no chance to protest."

James F. Harrington, Boston attorney, who announced himself as counsel for the four deposed Revere truckers, said:

"On January 13 I appeared at Mr. Riley's office to request granting four new permits, and was told applicants had not appeared and the hearing would be continued to January 24."

"When I returned then, Riley told me applicants actually had come to his office the 13th, after I had left. He said: 'This is a Revere political affair. You shouldn't be mixed up in it. Why don't you withdraw?'"

"He gave out the dump truck permits anyway."

Japs, Chinese Both Trap Enemy Forces

SHANGHAI, March 13 (AP)—Japanese authorities announced today their forces had surrounded 2500 Chinese troops, who faced annihilation, in northern Kiangsu, the province in which Nanking and Shanghai are located.

In Shanai province, to the northwest, the Chinese asserted they were making enveloping movements against the invaders and had 10,000 Japanese had been encircled northwest of Taiyuan, where they said the Japanese supply and communications lines had been cut.

U. S. German Spy Fears Nazi Revenge

LOS ANGELES, March 13 (AP)—A former clerk in the public relations office of March Field, the army's bombardment squadrons base in southern California, is under arrest here and held for deportation to his native Germany.

Heinz Gerhardt, Hartmann-Wrede, 30-year-old ex-soldier, has been held in the county jail here a week on a charge of illegal entry, pending federal hearing.

The Los Angeles Examiner quoted him as claiming to have uncovered a German spy ring for the army intelligence and expressing fear of violent death if he were deported.

A onetime seaman, Hartmann-Wrede came to the United States in 1929, applied for his first citizenship papers, but finally shipped

Can Lost Hair Be Made to Grow Again

As Says Traditional Opinion. Yes Say Thousands Who Have Made This Three Day Test

SENT FREE TO ALL WHO WRITE

Thousands of people whose hair is thinning rapidly having tried various ointments and treatments without benefit believe their situation beyond help and that nothing more can be done for them. Yet their case may not be hopeless. In many cases hair loss, thought dead, is merely dormant, can be aroused to renewed activity, grow back again, thick and luxuriant as ever. Results in this respect that seem utterly amazing have been produced over and over again in literally thousands of cases by Frederick's Ointment, an English research worker in hair and scalp conditions. Sworn statements and actual photographs clearly prove the success of this process. Mr. Godfrey makes no claims, offers no promises in any individual case but offers to send Free and without obligation a Test Package and full particulars of his process to all who write. You may, if you wish, enclose ten cents to cover postage and packing. Ready used as you wish and inexpensive. Mr. Godfrey's promise has already met a life wide acceptance since its introduction to this country. Send your request to Frederick Godfrey Co., Dept. 120 St. Adams, N. E. Write him today.

STATE'S BLIZZARD DEATH TOLL

sons on an "owl" car got the scare of their lives when the rear truck jumped the rails. No injuries were reported or damage done, but some passengers, recalling the Dorchester disaster of a fortnight ago, were alarmed for the moment.

Deaths caused by the blizzard included:

Patrick McCaffrey, 36, of Prescott street, East Boston, who collapsed in Prescott street after struggling through snow on his way to work.

Alf Moberg, 18, of Swampscott, who died in a highway department truck after battling through the storm.

John J. Harris, 70, Hopdale, who died in Hopdale police station after trading through drifts on his way to work.

WORK IN SNOW FATAL

Fritz Johnson, 65, of Warren avenue, Milton, died of heart attack brought on from overexertion, at his place of business in Cambridge.

Elwood D. Barrows, 71, of West Baltimore street, Lynn, dropped dead while adjusting chains on his car at Central avenue and Reedsdale road, Milton.

Patrick J. Morrissey, 66, of Whitman street, Malden, watchman at the Congress Rubber Shoe Company plant in Malden, died while shoveling snow at the plant's automobile gate.

Mrs. Janet Blake, Jordan, 53, of Lantz road, Malden, collapsed and died in her home after trading through snow from her automobile, stalled in drifts only a short distance from the house. She was a teacher in the Maplewood school, Malden, and past national president of the auxiliary of the Scottish Clans.

John McManus, 29, of Compton street, South End, drowned in Boston Harbor after he plunged from Fish Pier when blinded by wind and snow.

Mrs. Alida Torngren, 64, of Goodwin avenue, Revere, died of

It's An Ill Blizzard---

Schools in hundreds of Massachusetts cities and towns were closed because of the storm today. A partial list of Greater Boston communities where sessions were cancelled follows:

Boston, Cambridge, Somerville, Brookline, Malden, Quincy (except high schools), Sharon, Franklin, Lynnfield, Topsham, Reading, Needham, Winchester, Woburn, Waltham, Peabody, Weston, Lincoln, Norwell, Everett, Marshfield, Saugus, Beverly, Waltham, Newton, Melrose and Dedham, Bridgewater, Weymouth, Dover, Belmont, Weymouth, Nahant, Sudbury, Stoughton, Walpole, Newwood, Milton, Hingham, Hanson, Hanover, Andover.

heart attack while walking home. Howard D. Allen, 65, of Beverly, succumbed after running to catch bus.

Joseph Rosa, 62, of Fall River, died of exhaustion.

Mrs. Flomena Raddocchio, 77, of Malden street, Revere, died at Massachusetts General Hospital from burns suffered when her husband, Antonio, tried to warm her bed with a heated brick.

Lawrence E. Sheehan, 43, of Mansfield, collapsed as he drove a hearse in a funeral procession through blinding snow.

Gloria Ryan, 3-month-old daughter of Mrs. Lorna Ryan of Burrill street, Roxbury. Stricken by a severe coughing spell. Whirling snow and drifts slowed the police ambulance, and the baby died in her mother's arms before arriving at City Hospital.

REMOVAL LACK HIT

Not a snow removal job had been given out in Cambridge up to 10 a. m. today since the beginning of the storm Saturday night—and many and bitter were complaints by motorists also regarding condition of Boston streets.

Motorists from the South Shore said all was comparatively clear riding until they left the Metropolitan-controlled Old Colony boulevard at Columbia circle, South Boston.

From there in road conditions, they declared, were "disgraceful," with traffic crowded into a single line and wheeling, twisting and bumping over huge lumps and dropping into deep holes in the snow ruts.

Conditions in Cambridge also came in for severe criticism. More than 500 men stormed the municipal employment offices in Central square looking for snow-removal jobs.

STATE ROAD BLOCKED

There were 3500 state employees and 800 plows, trucks and "snow units" engaged in snow removal today throughout the Commonwealth. Engineers of the Public Works Department said this was the worst snowstorm in four years and that there were two feet of JINGLE BELLS—Watertown youngsters find the blizzard a pleasure as school is called off... and such conveyances as this milk sled offer grand opportunities for hitch-hiking.

Jingle Belled Sleigh Speeds Judge to Court

With jingle bells and a one-horse open sleigh, Judge Lawrence G. Brooks solved the transportation problem and drove three miles from his home in West Medford to Malden district court today.

Bundled into the rear seat, the judge was whisked past stalled cars and through Medford square as children shouted and chased the old-fashioned vehicle. He arrived at the courthouse on time.

snow on Berkshire roads, with 16 to 20 inches on the Mohawk trail.

They reported that the Ipswich-Newburyport road, where a snow tractor and plow became disabled, was the only state highway completely blocked by the heavy snow.

The storm will cost the state about $100,000, engineers estimated.

George C. Hyland, Boston public works commissioner, reported that 800 regular city employees are engaged on snow removal, as well as 400 welfare recipients and 3000 men hired for the emergency—a total of 4700 men.

In addition to 50 city-owned trucks engaged in snow ploughing in Boston, 180 trucks were hired.

For snow removal, in addition to 100 city trucks, 200 were hired.

In South Boston, Coleman Brothers, contractors, were given the work of removing snow along the parade route to be used March 17.

Commissioner Hyland said the snow removal work will cost Boston $40,000 a day and he estimated that from three to six days will be needed, unless there is a heavy thaw.

The worst conditions in years were reported on trunk highways, where thousands of extra workers and plows battled from 12 to 16 inches of snow. Late bulletins from the state police stated even the important roads were fast becoming "impassable."

Skids and "jack-knifing" of transportation vans on the Newburyport turnpike near Shoemaker's Hill caused one of the major highway accidents of the storm, involving two Boston drivers. Carl Centola, 22, of Portsmouth street, Brighton, suffered fractured ribs and spinal injuries, and Walter J. A. Harris of Preston road, Somerville, sustained a broken hip.

INJURED IN CRASHES

Robert Codwise, 19, of Pratt street, Melrose, working on a truck in East Boston, throwing salt on Boston Elevated rails, suffered lacerations when hurled from the truck in a collision.

Police said an automobile backed out of a Saratoga street filling station and struck the truck. Codwise was taken to Strong Hospital, East Boston.

At Nashua, a three-car collision caused by snow-obscured windshields sent Mrs. Antonia Hasalevic, 50, to Memorial Hospital with internal injuries.

Hundreds of commuters bound intown from Winthrop were delayed when broken wires across the Narrow Gauge tracks held up trains for two hours.

Power and communication lines were broken in such distant places as Dennis and Easton, on Cape Cod and Stockbridge in the Berkshires.

Little relief in conditions was expected by weather experts before tonight. Forecasters indicated the fine snow will turn to rain, which will increase the dangers of motor travel.

At 11 a. m. state police reported that all main highways in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut and New York had been opened but that it was still snowing so heavily, and winds were blowing so steadily, that the plows were still at work to clear drifts.

CAPE COD FOUNDED

Provincetown, at the tip of Cape Cod, took a terrific pounding from surf and gale.

Homes and studios along the waterfront were shaken to their foundations. Many families could not sleep because of the roar of waves and storm.

Coast guardsmen patrolling the exposed beach between Race Point and Peaked Hill railway house, said conditions were the worst in years. In some places they floundered through neck-deep snowdrifts. Several were treated for frostbite.

Ice-encrusted telephone and power lines threatened to collapse, with a break in communication and electric service apparently imminent.

Solving Surplus
Cotton Problem

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

Government is not struggling alone in the attempt to solve the problem of surplus cotton. Private enterprise is solidly behind it and doing things on its own account. . . . And National Cotton Week is symbolic of its efforts to aid growers. . . .

And this year it designates the spearhead of an organized merchandising attack on the huge and troublesome U. S. surplus. . . . The objective is the added consumption of 500,000 bales of cotton. . . . The number of stores participating in the selling drive scheduled for the week of May 22 to 27 is conservatively estimated at 75,000. . . . Which means that this year all previous records for concerted selling drives will be broken.

While the cotton farmer will be given much needed aid it is not the only one to share in the benefits of cotton week. . . . Textile mills of New England, with their emphasis on fine goods, rail and other carriers, and many other branches of industry will gain through the stimulated use of cotton fabrics.

NEW OFFICERS. . . . Of Russell Dean & Co. are William C. Paulson and Howard E. Spencer. . . . Mr. Dean informs us both have been elected vice-presidents of his company. . . . Mr. Paulson was for many years connected with Townsend, Anthony & Tenny, later serving as assistant treasurer of Schoellkopf, Hutton & Pomeroy. . . . Mr. Spencer was previously connected with Jackson & Co. as a sales manager. . . .

SECOND LOOK. . . . At the Chilean copper tax proposals is convincing observers initial selling was a bit hasty and thoughtless. . . . Both Anaconda and Kennecott will lose some income if the tax is enacted. . . . But hardly enough to warrant early fears of confiscation. . . . Under present conditions operating rates and net metal prices Anaconda would pay about 21 cents per share. . . . Kennecott around 10 cents a share. . . . Which means prices of the stocks have already been corrected in anticipation of the worst. . . .

MARKET ACTION. . . . Indicates that the uncertain stage of the rice has been reached. . . . All told trade prospects have been fairly well taken into account. . . . For our part we would hesitate to add to commitments for the time being. . . . Or until the last either reaches new ball market higher or undergoes more correction than encountered of late. . . .

UTILITY TRADING. . . . By Massachusetts Utilities Associates, taking over the Middlesex County Electric Co., and a New England Power Association subsidiary acquisition of Marlborough-Hudson Gas Co. and Milford Gas Light Co. . . . Provided the SEC approves. . . . Frank D. Comerford, chairman of the New England Power board, announces the application has been filed. . . . If approved it means a logical geographical line-up. . . . As the first company is contiguous to territory of New Utilities. . . . While the others buy gas from the New England subsidiary, Worcester Gas Light.

NOTEBOOK. . . . Owens Illinois is expected to show a substantial first year earnings of $2.25 a share in 1938. . . . Although at present time 80 per cent of its sales are still accounted for by glass containers, the company's glass products have especially fine glass containers. . . .

RUKEYSER

Criticisms of Price Policies

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

International News Service Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, March 13 (INS).—The recent excursion at Washington by the temporary National Economic Committee into the pricing policies of industry uncover a pivotal phase of our nation's economic life.

The committee's inquiries into specific industries such as steel and rubber have not only succeeded in illuminating the full significance of the price problem, but have also shown that there has been in steel at least within the last several years a considerable enrichment of stockholders. The committee's inquiries into the rubber industry as a whole has been equally enlightening. . . . It has been mistakes and errors of judgment by the industry and not market forces that have not resulted in an equitable distribution of the gains of the industry.

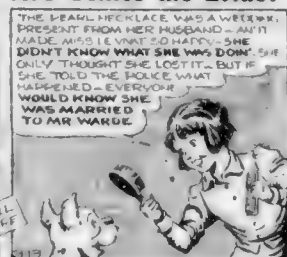

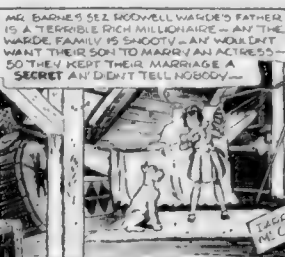

There was no real understanding of the price problem unless there was a knowledge of the relationship within the price structure.

The price structure may be said to be in a healthy state of equilibrium when the inter-relationship of prices of various commodities is such that the price of one commodity is in a optimum rate, with due regard to the other commodities.

When disproportionate price increases occur, it becomes difficult for producers in one industry to exchange a normal amount of their goods for the goods of other producers whose prices have been relatively unchanged.

Study of the price structure is clarified through recognition that there are different groups of goods.

EXCHANGES SEEK SEC REVISIONS

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 13 (INS)—Revision of the federal securities laws to assist business will be recommended by leaders of the nation's principal stock exchanges.

Assembling in the capital for a two-day conference the stock market representatives will seek a number of changes and modifications in the legal restraints now placed on securities trading by the federal government.

Although spokesmen for the various stock markets insist they have no quarrel with federal supervision of their activities, officials of the Securities and Exchange Commission feared that certain members of the "financial old guard" may attempt to undermine the friendly relations between the government and the Wall Street reform element.

Revision of the ban against stock manipulation is the chief item on the conference agenda. Many stock exchange leaders feel this prohibition is too drastic and that the government should allow certain types of stock "pool" operations.

SEC officials indicated they would resist any efforts to relax this prohibition, explaining the ban on market manipulation is the heart of the securities act.

William McC. Martin, Jr., president of New York Stock Exchange, informed International News Service he will oppose any action by the conference that might injure the current harmony between the administration and the securities markets.

Stock exchanges in the following cities have been invited to participate in the conference: Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Richmond, St. Louis, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Seattle, Washington, D. C. and Winston-Salem, N. C.

Cloth Market Slow Affair

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—Reports from Wall Street indicate the market today indicates a good recovery for goods, and most business transactions. Prices are firm.

Low interest rates in money markets have helped to bring about a recovery in the cotton market. The market was quiet, but there was a slight upward movement in the price of cotton.

Boston Wool Trade Slow

Wool was slow in the Boston market today continuing the trend of late last week. Buyers were making a few inquiries but they were not inclined to buy. The market was quiet, but there was a slight upward movement in the price of wool.

Prices for immediate needs were firm, but there was a slight downward movement in the price of wool. The market was quiet, but there was a slight upward movement in the price of wool.

Boston Edison Report for All Employees

Boston Edison Company today began the distribution of the pamphlet report of its operations for the year ended December 31, 1938. As announced several weeks ago these operations resulted in earnings for the year of $130,000, a very satisfactory showing in view of the very costly hurricane of last September.

For more years the Boston Edison Company has sent a copy of its annual report to each employee, as well as to each stockholder, and this year the distribution is supplemented by a special letter from President Frank D. Comerford to the employees, which is in effect a report to employees.

Among the interesting Boston Edison facts mentioned in the report which is distributed to all employees, which is in effect a report to employees, is that the company's earnings for the year ended December 31, 1938, were $130,000, a very satisfactory showing in view of the very costly hurricane of last September.

(CAN THE ERSKINE School pick 'em . . . The girls in the drama department chose Shakespeare's "A Winter's Tale" for the play which they give over the week-end . . . and they didn't need any other atmosphere than that provided by the weather man to make the production perfect.

Sitting way down front in the crowded audience in John Hancock Hall were a number of famous Erskine students . . . Betty Benson was with her sister, Joan Westworth, who asked her to protect the hem of her shiny peach-brocade gown from snow drifts as she slipped down the aisle. Her shoulders were snugly wrapped in a warm blanket to set off her Tulle costume.

Betty Benson, who is almost always requesting a part for a play or another amateur play, sat in the audience Saturday evening and others enjoying the Shakespearean revival were Miss Martin Higgins and Miss Frances Bates, who discussed young actors' studies during the intermission . . . Miss Ann Graham was also present as was Honor Babson, Mrs. Charles Babson and Mrs. Dudley Higgins, whose daughter, Catharine, was one of the shepherdesses in the play . . . Sport Monopolists Throttle Competition

When the Federal investigators of business monopoly run out of trouble they might snoop into the professional sports world. There are a lot of monopolies there killing off the competition.

AUSTEN LAKE

Take Joe Louis, the heavy-weight fight champion; or Donald Budge, the newly inducted pro tennis king; or the New York Yankees, the three-time World Series hogs, and Henry Armstrong, who holds three different boxing titles. Is that monopoly?

Well, Webster's definition of Monopoly is, "Exclusive control of the supply of a commodity or service in any given market." So would you say that Louis, Budge, Armstrong and the Yankees are controlling their commodities to the starvation of their competitors?

There is Don Budge who has just given Fred Perry, the British ex-champion, a second consecutive licking which made it look like your sister Tilly playing with the puppy. And before that he flogged Ellsworth Vines so savagely that Vines decided that his infant daughter needed parental direction and went home to be a good daddy. The fact, in plain blunt Saxon-English, was that Vines was fired for failing to erect the illusion that equals were meeting equals.

Don Budge was to blame in refusing to baby his shots and throw enough points to make Vines and Perry look good. Is that monopoly? For the people just won't pay if the show is lousy, and professional ethics required that Budge whos himself down to the proper tempo and drop a set here and there and build up the business of which he is being paid a percentage. But No! Budge pleased off the competition to such a degree that a bare corners injury turned out at the Boston Garden on Saturday and presently the Tennis Tours company will have to fiddle up and everybody, including Budge himself, will be out of work. That's monopoly!

Louis Has Killed Off Competition

THEN THERE IS JOE LOUIS, who has bluffed over all the best of the lighter weight and flyweight champions. Mike Jacobs, the champion of the 125 pound weight, wanted to fight Louis, who came on and knocked him out. Mike has to keep his name going, or he goes back to the back of the line. So that gives you a notion of how kind of the monopoly is in the prizefighting trade. Indeed in order to keep the prizefights from becoming a thing of the past, the prizefights and prizefighting have to be kept alive by the prizefights and prizefighting.

And what about the prizefighting? Henry Armstrong, the champion of the 125 pound weight, has just given Fred Perry, the British ex-champion, a second consecutive licking which made it look like your sister Tilly playing with the puppy. And before that he flogged Ellsworth Vines so savagely that Vines decided that his infant daughter needed parental direction and went home to be a good daddy. The fact, in plain blunt Saxon-English, was that Vines was fired for failing to erect the illusion that equals were meeting equals.

Pitt Cured Itself

THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH had a monopoly on college football last autumn. But they did something about it. The administration slammed the cellar door through which shaggy schoolboys with piano wire teeth, hauser muscles and tubular-stick backbones were knocking in. They shut off free scholarships, free food and beds, and decided that henceforth the lads must matriculate for the sake of culture and bring sufficient funds with them. So what? So Coach Jack Sutherland, who was smart enough to know that a wizard is no greater than the mage of his materials, up and quit. And that ended Pitt's football monopoly.

The Boston Bruins have enjoyed a hockey monopoly this winter by stuffing more rubber plugs into rival fish nets than were stuffed past Frank Brimsek. But fear not! That is only a minor temporary monopoly. For the Bruins have always come apart in the Stanley Cup playoffs and returned looking as though the moths had been at them. What kind of a monopoly is that?

Well, there have been monopolies in sport before. Bobby Jones had a golf monopoly; Jack Dempsey in boxing; Man O'War in racing; Bill Tilden in tennis; Notre Dame in football. They called their period the Golden Era of Sport. But in latter-day retrospect it was Golden only because money was more fluid and leisure more plentiful. So the monopolists of today will soon lose those of yesterday and tomorrow a new crop of monopolists will grow up. For Monopoly, in any line, is superiority of brain and muscle. They, like the poor, will be always with us.

RANGERS' SCHEDULE AIDS BRUINS IN BATTLE FOR CUP

By BILL GRIMES

While the schedule committee of the National Hockey League was voting favorably on the dates and sites for games of the current season as submitted by President Frank Calder, Manager Lester Patrick, of New York Rangers, must have been giving his "ghost writer" a message to his hockey public.

Otherwise, Lester would have insisted that the Rangers would never have been assigned to make round trips to Detroit and Toronto and play four games during the final week of the season.

The Rangers' schedule is so packed that they will have to play four games in a row on Thursday night, Friday night, Saturday night and Sunday night. They will have to play four games in a row on Thursday night, Friday night, Saturday night and Sunday night. They will have to play four games in a row on Thursday night, Friday night, Saturday night and Sunday night.

COMPONENTS WILL FIGHT

Manager Jack Adams, who is to sit back and watch his team square their chances of making the playoffs by playing a wide open, non-body-checking game of hockey against the Rangers. The Rangers will step into Rangers' shoes and can be certain, and so will the Americans on Thursday night. The Bruins have been so busy during the last two months of the season that they have had to play four games in a row on Thursday night, Friday night, Saturday night and Sunday night.

On Saturday and Sunday the Bruins play a home and home series with the Maple Leafs, which opens at 7:30 p. m. on Saturday.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS
BOSTON V. RANGERS
Boston	3	Winnipeg	2	Chicago	1	St. Louis	1	Philadelphia	1
Rangers	2	Montreal	1	Detroit	1	Calgary	1	Pittsburgh	1

The Bruins, Detroit, Canadiens and Americans have only two more games to play but the Bruins will play four games in a row on Thursday night, Friday night, Saturday night and Sunday night.

DOWN FOR BRUINS

It may be a long time before the Bruins will be back in the game. They have been out of the game for a long time. They have been out of the game for a long time. They have been out of the game for a long time. They have been out of the game for a long time.

HAWKS HERE TOMORROW

After an absence of three days, the Hawks will be back in the game tomorrow. They will be back in the game tomorrow. They will be back in the game tomorrow. They will be back in the game tomorrow.

Maple Leafs have cleaned their slate with all clubs but the two New York outfits.

And, in the event that the long play-offs "milk" the fans too strenuously, the entire picture will be revamped before another season rolls around.

Getliffe Home

Ray Getliffe, left wing of the Boston Bruins, was unable to play with the team against the Rangers in New York last night, remaining at the bedside of his sick 11-month-old daughter, Laura, ill with pneumonia at Children's Hospital.

ZERO KID Brimsek and Eddie Shore both fall to the ice to prevent a Ranger score by the combined efforts of L. Patrick (9) and Smith (10). The Bruins won, 4 to 2.

OTHER END—Cecil Drillon of the Rangers retrieves a loose puck that goalie Kerr has just stopped from the stick of Bruin Schmidt. Murray Patrick is blocking Schmidt.

Postpone N. E. Fight Finals At Garden Until Wednesday

By JACK CONWAY

The New England boxing finals, scheduled to be staged at the Boston Garden, tonight, have been postponed until Wednesday evening on account of the storm.

When word of the postponement was made known, the rival promoters returned to the gym where they have been working so as to keep tuned up for the fights.

It will be a parade of champions. Heaviest All-American ring king, Mike Tyson, and golden glove champions will arrive for honors.

The winners in Wednesday's show will be in line for matches in the national amateur boxing championships that will be held in San Francisco in April.

THIRTEEN GLADIATORS

The heavyweight class is expected to produce plenty of thrills. Included in the list of boxers in this class are Herbert Conan, Rochester, Mike Tyson, Brockton, Robert Fouchard, Kingston, Jack McCarthy, Worcester, and Peter Zolli, East Providence.

John Farrow of South Boston will show in the 125 pound class, and he is confident he will win over Mike Tyson.

Lynn Quintet Defends Title in Big Bowlaway

By WALTER KILEY

Lynn's Waldorf City League Five, men's open team champions of 1938, come back strong in an effort to successfully defend their Boston Evening American-Daily Record candlepin title.

The Waldorf City League Five is composed of Frank Fletcher, Lawrence Colburne, Frank Lovering, George Harnden, Frank Poul and James Dukas. The Lynn team sends warning to all other "open" championship-bent outfits as the fourth annual American-Record tourney draws near at the Huntington Club.

Amateur entries continue to pile up for the title event which is slated for the Huntington Club from Saturday, March 25, through Saturday, April 8.

Spaulding Moss Associates enters its team of J. Corkery, H. Sederquist, H. Croscup, M. Ulrich and C. DaCorta.

Captain Al Baker files for his Massachusetts Avenue Five, a team made up of Arthur Marks of Dorchester, Joe Garneau of Rosbury, Joe Sulesky of Compton st., Boston, and John Hankard of East Boston.

From New Bedford comes a potent outfit composed of Carl Anthony, Paul King, Joe Fahay, Bob Nicholson and Jimmy Thomas.

Somerville boasts a strong girls' team entry in Grace Palmer, Lucille Surtelle of Arlington, June Grinnell, Sally Parsons and Ruth Redfern.

The Nonantum Spa of Newton has a would-be title team in Bob Norcross, Vic Pilon, Amos Landry, Frank Krefe and Jake Paz.

Victor E. Gustin of Biddeford, Maine, enters two teams from that city, one representing Lewis Polokewich Company, the other Foran's Express.

Three able youngsters from Dover are taking a crack at the schoolboy title. Carl Gundal, John DeLong and Harry Horsfall.

These amateur contestants will be bowling away with might and main, seeking the wealth of medal, merchandise and trophy prizes.

Those prizes are headed by the 11 handsome Gruen Precision 17-jewel wrist watches, most modern timepieces made and including the wonderful new "Rise-Side" model and the brand new and startling "Veri-Thin" model which is only now appearing on the market.

On top of these are the several costly donations made by the always friendly and co-operative Washington Jewelry Company with its two Washington street, Boston, stores.

Washington Jewelry offers us a latest model Emerson table radio in color, a Remington-Rand electric shaver and the most useful Toastmaster Waffle Baker.

Joe Conway, president of Horace Partridge Company of Franklin street, Boston, donates several pairs of men's finest official bowling shoes of kangaroo leather.

Other prizes, running into the hundreds, are ready to be won, with yet more to be announced.

Mayor Tobin, Joe Grant of Roxbury, Wonderland Park, through the Bay State Greyhound Racing Association, and John Ambrose of the Kenmore Recreation, are just four of several persons who have donated beautiful trophies.

Kilstar 11-2 for Grand National

LONDON, March 13—Miss Dorothy Pageta Kilstar ruled the favorite at 11 to 2 in the latest call-over of odds on the Grand National at Aintree on March 24, the world's sweetest classic.

Next betting favorites are Sir Alexander Macquie's Workman and Sir Edward Hammer's Teme Willow, at 100 to 8, and H. C. McNally's Royal Daniel, at 100 to 1. Mrs. Camille Evans' Royal Mill, 1937 winner, and Mrs. A. Smith-Bingham's Brenda's Cottage, at 20 to 1.

Von Cramm Will Play in America

CAIRO, Egypt, March 13 (AP)—Baron Gottfried Von Cramm of Germany, former Davis Cup star and one of the world's best amateur players, said today he intended to enter the United States championships and the Australian championships this year if once countries would grant him visas.

POSTPONE SKI JUMPS

WINSTED, Conn., March 13 (AP)—A heavy snow storm that prevented a view of the jump from the top of the hill caused postponement of the championship tournament scheduled by the Eastern Ski Association here.

When the Florida Grapefruit League starts this week the fans will get some worthwhile information of the Bees and Red Sox . . . Casey Stengel in building practically a new club for the Bees . . . But, Joe Cronin has his troubles, pitchers, Jim Taber and Ted Williams.

Hockey is retaining its "space" on the sport pages because five of the seven clubs are still battling for positions . . . Don't take a gamble that you'll be able to buy seats for the Bruins-Rangers game one week from tomorrow night in New York . . . Have your tickets and read about the outcome the next day . . . On the showing made by the other five clubs during the N. H. L. the Bruins-Rangers series should practically decide the Stanley Cup . . . For any other club to capture the world's championship title would be a miscarriage of justice.

The Maple Leafs are the only half-way serious threat and they are not up to the usual Smythe standard . . . The Rossmen, with their balance and power, have the advantage in four out of seven series . . . Discount all laudatory comments in circulation concerning Canadians and Detroit . . . It's nothing more than hysteria, caused by a couple of flashes.

Bill Sullivan's "Sport Night" should pack South Boston's Municipal Building one week from tonight . . . When "Sleepy" Joe Batiste, Tucson, Ariz., High School's one-man track team, established his National Interscholastic 120 high hurdle record of 14.5 seconds, the barriers were 42 inches high . . . Batiste is also the holder of the schoolboy high jump mark, 6 feet, 5 1/2 inches . . . Get busy, college track coaches, "Sleepy" Joe is a senior.

Judge Eddie Counihan looks great after his Florida vacation . . . Mr. Art Ross is taking golf lessons from John Bernardi . . . And, while speaking of golf, Bill Cowley has a meal ticket in Eddie Shore at indoor golf . . . Eddie says that he's only letting Bill hold that dough until he gets him out on the links.

Eddie Jeremiah, the hockey coach and Osborne Cowles, who handles the varsity basketball squad, are sitting pretty at Dartmouth . . . They have won Intercollegiate championship for two years.

"Jerry" piloted his puck chasers to a three-deadlocking Toronto Varsity and Queens.

Sports Scribes and Fan States Bees Have Best Club

THE WORLD appeared quite pleasant to me following a trip to Scituate where I found people talking about Spring and Yachting despite the recent storms or until I arrived in this office where I got a fiery letter from Joseph Clancy of Dorchester.

"I am fed up reading the stories by Herb Finnegan, Austen Lake and yourself in which you tell about the Red Sox power, and the foolish statements by you scribes to the effect the Yankee team will be battling it out with the Yankees for the American League pennant," writes Clancy. "I think sports writers give too much attention to the Red Sox. One would think that Joe Cronin had the best ball club in baseball from the way some of the stories appearing in the newspapers read."

"Let me go on record as saying the Red Sox will be lucky if they finish in the first division. The team is still as weak in pitchers as it was at the start of last season."

"A year ago Lefty Grove had not cracked up, but he is now only an old man taking the sun at Sarasota."

"Everybody admits Auker has never been worth a dime as a winning pitcher in the Spring. The submarine ball artist requires hot weather to get the stuff on his fast ones."

"Caldhouse is one of those so-so pitchers who may get somewhere with the Sox. The rest of the Sox pitching staff is unreliable."

"I'll concede that Jimmy Fox, Joe Vasmik and Joe Cronin had good seasons at the bat in 1938, but what is going to happen to the Sox if these players don't come through during the coming campaign? The Sox will collapse if its star hitters fail as it certainly has not much pitching."

"The less said about the Red Sox catching staff the better."

Says Bees Have Better Ball Club

"IF YOU SPORTS writers knew anything about baseball you would realize that the Bees have a much better club than the Red Sox. The Bees have had good pitching for several years."

"Jim Turner, Lou Fette and Danny MacFayden don't have to ask favors from anybody."

"These pitchers won games even when Vince DiMaggio and other Bees had trouble getting a foul ball. It is true even in the National League that one cannot steal first base, but Bob Quinn has finally got a flock of hitters who are going to pound out plenty of runs during the coming season."

"There are 11 birds among the Bees who hit over .300 last year. Even though some of these averages were made in the minor leagues the hits were clouted out against pitchers. A player who can belt for .350 in a first class minor league doesn't have to worry about not batting for over .300 in either the National or American League."

"Some of our major league pitchers are no better in their line than Tony Galento is as a heavyweight fighter. That isn't saying much for them even though Tony is going to collect a fat purse for getting knocked as cold as a mackerel by Joe Louis."

"Buddy Hassett and Al Simmons are going to get a lot of hits for the Bees. I think Jimmy Outlaw will do more than collect his pay check."

Says Al Lopez Is Class as Catcher

"DON'T TRY and tell me the Red Sox have a catcher who compares with Al Lopez."

"I know that Tom Yawkey, Eddie Collins and Joe Cronin are nice fellows, but don't permit their wealth and athletic standing to cause you to lose your baseball judgment. Give the Bees the credit to which they are entitled."

"Tell Austen Lake to forget writing about John L. Sullivan, the dog track in the Garden, and about the huge expense the baseball owners go to in sending their club South, and give the Bees the credit to which they are entitled."

"Joe Cashman at least hands the Bees a chance to finish in the first division. Why hasn't Joe got the courage to pick the Bees to fight it out for the pennant? He might also add that the Bees can lick the Sox any time the money is up."

"The trouble with sports writers is that they begin to believe their own statements. They get one sided ideas."

BEES MAY RETAIN PITCHER DOLL

Disagree With Ford Frick's Box Ruling

By JOE CASHMAN

BRADENTON, Fla., March 12.—Bees' hurlers opine that President Ford Frick either was misquoted in the California dispatch, which had him decreeing that a finger must have both feet on the ground when he pitches a ball, or else the "prexy" isn't conversant with the rules he's paid $35,000 yearly to enforce. There's no such rule in the book, say the Swarm boxmen. If there was, pitching would become a lost art.

"It's impossible to put anything on a ball unless one foot is in the air when it is being thrown. The Bees' camp is unique in that the boys do nothing but play ball. No calisthenics, medicine ball tossing, grass drills, footcuring or any other new-fangled frills, popular with so many clubs, are per-

Rangers Head For Tough Week

A fast peek at the National Hockey League schedule for the concluding week of the season reveals that the Rangers, who'll engage the Bruins in the top play-off series starting a week from Tuesday in New York, have some stormy weather ahead.

The Blue Shirts have four games in six nights, starting in Detroit tomorrow. They rush back to Gotham for a Thursday night game with Americans and play Toronto at Toronto Saturday and again in New York on Sunday night.

Manager Lester Patrick doesn't like this arrangement a bit, for it means that his Rangers may be a bit worn out for the first of a four-out-of-seven struggle with the Bruins.

He intends to keep his stars under cover as much as possible in order to avoid injuries, yet the Americans and Leafs, battling for third place, will not be pulling any punches.

The hockey menu for the final week:

TUESDAY
CHICAGO AT BOSTON
New York Rangers at Detroit
New York Americans at Toronto.

THURSDAY
Chicago at Canadiens
R. T. Rangers at N. Y. Americans.
New York Rangers at Toronto.

SATURDAY
CANADIENS AT BOSTON
Toronto at New York Rangers.
Chicago at Detroit.

Primo Carnera Weds

SEQUOIA, Italy, March 12 (AP).—Primo Carnera, former world heavyweight boxing champion, and Pina Cavazzani were married here today by a parish priest.

The bride was an hour late reaching the church because of a snowstorm created by well-wishers on the mountain roads near her home. The parents of both were among the villagers who flocked to the church.

mitted here. . . . Manager Casey Stengel holds that the one and only way to get in shape to play ball is by playing ball.

Ralph Hodgins, rookie outfielder from Evansville, was asked if he could play the sun field. "I don't know," he replied. "I didn't play often enough in day time in the minors to find out."

Sun fielders become more and more extinct as night ball spreads.

It would seem the Bees' management must arrange for farm or a working agreement in Class AA, neither of which it has at present. . . . There are several players on the roster who aren't quite ready for big time but are too fast for Class A. . . . They'll be waiting a year if Donnell's berth aren't found for them.

DOLL MAY STICK

Art Doll, the big Chicagoan who was a catcher when he became Bees' property a few years back, may stick as a pitcher this year by virtue of being the only fireballer among the current hill candidates. . . . He's trying to perfect a curve. . . . If he ever masters it, he'll be a stickout. . . . With speed as his only asset, he won 17 games for Hartford last year. . . . And when he wasn't hurling, he was catching, playing in the outfield or pinch-hitting.

Bob Coleman's Evansville farmers were the Tanks of the minor leagues last year. . . . The first batter up in the first game of the season hit a home run. . . . The boys held that lead, were in first place that night and stayed there to the finish, winning the pennant by 11 games. . . . And Coleman was presented an automobile by the fans.

It was different the year before, when Bob was at Scranton. "There," he relates, "all I got from the fans was 'why do you bother to go on the coaching lines, Coleman, none of those bums of yours are ever going to get on base.'"

Johnny Hill, Atlanta third sacker and Southern League batting champion last year, is the biggest disappointment among the Bees' rookies to date. . . . The Georgian has been next to helpless at the plate and slow and unsteady at the bat. . . . Those who saw him last summer, however, insist he'll snap out of it very soon and clinch the regular hot corner job with the Swarm.

"Buddy" Hassett was nipped off first base in one of the scrub games. . . . "Once a Dodger, always a Dodger," piped Eddie Miller. "Buddy" laughed. . . . But Tony Cuccinello and Al Lopez didn't.

'SNOW BABY' BORN

Jobs Wanted—Piled up snow offered hope of jobs to hundreds . . . and Boston city yards, in Albany street, were thronged with men who wanted a chance to enlist under city's banner for duration of the snow.

Snow Slide—Skidding through heavy snow on Cambridge street, Burlington, this truck plunged off the road, snapped a telephone pole, smashed a tree, stopped at stone wall. Driver was only slightly hurt.

Snow Scene—While slush squished under foot on city streets and gray-hued piles were eyesores along curbs, Franklin Park became a thing of beauty and a joy forever . . . a wonderland of ermine, a treasure chest of sparkling diamonds.
